

Course Syllabus: Creative Writing 062

Course Description: Students will explore different types of prose narratives and the art of fiction, experiment with dialogue and point of view, and write poetry in various forms. Various rhetorical strategies will be examined by the study of short fiction and nonfiction models. Students will be expected to participate in collaborative response groups and present finished work to the class. Assignments are primarily student generated. Student work will be graded by portfolio assessment; additional grades will come from class participation and tests on the literature used as models.

Texts: Various in-house anthologies, handouts, and online material will be utilized as exemplars.

Course Materials: The required materials listed below will be an important part of the course, and students are expected to bring them class daily. If you are unable to provide these materials due to financial hardship, please speak to me outside of class as the school may be able to provide them to you:

- Agenda book or similar planning device
- Binder (one inch) or sturdy 2-pocket folder
- Dedicated course notebook (one subject college ruled)
- Pens & Pencils (black or blue)
- USB Flash Drive

Attendance / Participation: Your attendance and participation in this class is expected, and will play a significant role in helping you to gain the knowledge and skills needed to succeed in the course. Salem High School's attendance policy applies to this class. Please refer to your agenda book if you are unsure of what this policy entails.

Course Website: The course website (shsenglish.com) will be utilized throughout the semester as a point of reference for important course announcements, or relevant information concerning assignments, and other relevant course content. The website may also prove useful for students to submit work while outside of class, or for students and parents to communicate directly with the teacher.

Classroom Expectations: Every member of the class is expected to play a part in creating an environment of respect and support for other members of the class. While I do not expect everyone to be friends with every one of your classmates, I do expect that you will treat everyone with respect, professionalism, and dignity. Unless otherwise stated, all school rules apply in this classroom. Failure to meet the classroom expectations will negatively affect student's participation grade.

Electronics Policy: Any and all electronics should be off and out of sight upon entering the classroom. Students who choose to use any electronic devices without the express consent of the teacher will immediately have their devices confiscated and held until the end of the day. Refusal to turn over an electronic device will result in the student's immediate referral to the dean for further discipline. Students and parents/guardians wishing to communicate with each other during the school day for any reason may only do so by contacting the student's Housemaster. The Housemaster will determine the conditions under which messages will be delivered to students.

Extra Help: Every Thursday afternoon from 2:02 - 3:00pm, my classroom is open for students seeking extra help, those who need to make up work due to an excused absence, as well as those who are curious about their progress in the course. Students unable to meet during this time should speak with me directly outside of class to arrange another time to meet.

Communication: Effective and consistent communication is the key to success in any course. If you are confused about the course content, assignments, or expectations, please speak to me directly outside of class, or email me via the course website. By discussing any issues you may have outside of class, I will be able to focus more effectively on helping to resolve any concerns you have.

METHODS OF ASSESSMENT

- Students will be assessed in a manner consistent with the criterion outlined in the school-wide rubrics (see student handbook). Furthermore, all final grades will be calculated using the following formula: $(Total\ points\ earned) / (Total\ points\ possible) = \% Grade$

- Common Assignments and Point Values:
 - Writing Portfolio: 400 pts
 - Writing Journal: 200 pts
 - Participation: 100 pts
 - Test: 50 pts
 - Presentations: 50 pts
 - Quizzes: 10-25 pts
 - Classwork: 5-10 pts
 - Homework: 5-10 pts
- Not all work that you complete will be graded, as it is simply a part of the overall learning process. The above list is meant to be a representative sample only, and potential assignments or point values may change during the course of semester.

ASSIGNMENT & ASSESSMENT POLICIES

- Homework:
 - Homework is due at the beginning of class. Late work will not be accepted.
 - Your submitted work must be your own. Copied work will receive an automatic zero.
- Late Work:
 - Any major assignments (i.e. projects, essays, etc.) may be handed in late, but will be penalized 10% each day of the week including weekends. Late penalties are capped at 40%.
 - Students are encouraged to submit late work electronically to avoid additional penalties that may accrue over weekends or breaks.
- Make Up Work (Due to Excused Absence):
 - It is the responsibility of the student to determine what was missed during their absence, and to submit any missed work within the prescribed time periods. Work not submitted within the appropriate timeframes will automatically be graded as a zero.
 - Homework assignments due on the day you are absent must be submitted by 2pm on the day you return to school regardless of whether we have class or not.
 - Make up work (i.e. tests, quizzes, classwork, etc.) must be completed and submitted within 2 weeks of your return to school after an excused absence.
 - Electronic submissions of any make up work are welcome and encouraged.

COURSE GOALS AND METHODOLOGIES:

Students will understand and practice the writing process from pre-writing (stage one) through multiple experiments with language (stage two) to the refining and completion of a written product.

A. The Writing Methodology:

- I. Prewriting: The prewriting process utilizes all of the activities which lead to actual writing including brainstorming, mapping or clustering, example books, stories, poems, etc., listening to music, interviewing others, remembering important events the writer has experienced, and exposure to artistic endeavors of all types.
- II. First Draft / Writing: The writing stage of the process allows students to get his/her ideas down on paper.
- III. Revising/Conferencing/Editing: In this part of the writing process, the written work is refined. Students will be given the opportunity to revise and fine tune by working together in small groups, as well as conferencing with the teacher. The areas of focus in this stage include grammar, punctuation, capitalization, spelling and paragraphing, diction or word choice, and syntax.
- IV. Polishing/Completing: Students will produce a final product for either teacher or peer assessment.
- V. Publishing/Presenting: All students must present their final works to receive full course credit.

B. Terminology: Students will understand terms and demonstrate use in writing.

Objectives: Terms will include, but are not limited to:

- | | | |
|------------------------|----------------------|--------------------|
| ▪ Character | ▪ Suspense | ▪ Symbolism |
| ▪ Conflict | ▪ Climax | ▪ Tone |
| ▪ Setting | ▪ Resolution | ▪ Mood |
| ▪ Point of View | ▪ Dialogue | ▪ Style |
| ▪ Theme | ▪ Description | |
| ▪ Structure | ▪ Imagery | |

C. Critical Thinking Skills:

Students will develop critical thinking skills by comparing and contrasting various pieces of literature which provides examples of types of writing/themes/characterization that they are exploring.

Objectives: Students will learn to:

- interpret symbols, determine theme, note character traits and development, and apply them to their own writing
- learn to self-identify strengths and weaknesses in their own writing, and in the writing of their peers.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Plagiarism: The act of plagiarizing involves the use, assistance or abetting of someone else's words or ideas without citing the source of the information. Paraphrasing and direct quoting are two forms of plagiarism. It can occur in, but does not exclusively pertain to homework, essays, projects, and all forms of schoolwork. Students determined to have plagiarized will receive a zero for the assignment and the respective housemaster and parents will be notified. If applicable, the student will be reported to National Honor Society. [Credit: SHS Handbook]

▪ What Does This Mean?

- I have a zero tolerance policy for plagiarism in my classroom.
- If you attempt to pass off someone else's work as your own, by intentionally or unintentionally failing to give credit to the other person, you are plagiarizing.
- Even if you rephrase something, you must cite your source.
- If you are unclear whether or not something is plagiarism, please see me BEFORE the assignment is due to allow adequate time for you to make any corrections or citations before passing it in.

Please sign, detach, and return to teacher by next class. If you have any questions regarding course policies please contact me directly before signing so that I may address your concerns.*

Academic Honesty & Course Policies Contract - All students are expected to conduct themselves in an honest and ethical manner at all times. A first offense of cheating (plagiarizing, copying another student's work, etc.) will result in zero credit for the given assignment. Any subsequent offense may result in a failing grade for the entire term. By signing our class contract, you fully accept the class policies and expectations set forth in this course syllabus and the student handbook.

In addition to yourself, this course contract must be signed by a parent, guardian, or any other person who supports your goals of attaining academic excellence. For example: the person who would be proud of you when you get an 'A+' on an assignment.

I have read the Creative Writing requirements and policies and agree to fulfill them.
